Sandi:

I've been following the news – it sounds really bad and I can't imagine what the air must be like. We had just a few fires in our mountains this summer and it was affecting our air quality even then. In any case, glad to hear you are OK so far and hope they are able to get things under control soon.

We are just about to receive our first batch of the documents that we use to fill out the questionnaires (hopefully we will get them by tomorrow or Monday). We will then start filling out questionnaires next week, but given that its Thanksgiving I don't think we'll have enough done to ship anything to you until the week of the 26th.

Also, just so you know, the decision from the Judges has now been released as well. It wasn't exactly what I was hoping for, but the client was still happy with the outcome so we are definitely moving full steam ahead.

Jim

Hi Jim,

I hope this finds everyone doing well there.

As you've probably heard our state is really getting hit hard by the fires. I'm okay so far but the air quality is horrible.

We've had some internet outages and several people have told me they sent me emails I never got. I wanted to check in with you because of that and be sure I didn't miss any emails and also check in to see the status of getting started with receiving the surveys,

I think you had said we may start receiving them mid-November, is that still on track?

Let me know your thoughts.

Thanks,
Sandi
